ANNUAL CENTRAL MEETING SEES LARGE GATHERING OF PEDAGOGUES

Teachers from Chumby, Kinross and other intermediate points met in the Masonic hall, in Wainwright, on Saturday last for the annual central meeting of the Battle River district teachers' association, the retiring president, Mr. Smith, of Chumby, presiding.

Mr. Percy Page, coach of the world-famous Grads, was the first speaker of the afternoon. In a very interesting address he outlined the evolution of the game with which his name is so naturally associated—basketball. Among other things he pointed out how basketball is the only modern popular pastime which was deliberately invented, and explained how and where it had its origin. His address was listened to with close attention by those present, and at the close Miss Miss Velma Clark entertained with a delightfully executed tap dance.

Mr. A. C. Currie gave a very scholarly elucidation of the topic "Education in a changing world." As between those who would completely dismember the educational system as we know it today and those who see no need for change, the speaker advocated an eclectic attitude—that what is best in the present system should be retained to be supplemented by the addition of such courses as would bring the school abreast of the times; which would bring it into harmony with a society which is changing so rapidly economically, politically and socially.

Mr. Albert and a number of pupils from his school of gymnastics then gave a demonstration of pyramid building and allied acrobatics illustrative of what can be done in this field of education.

"Younger Set" Hold Masquerade Cabaret

HOBGOBLINS, WITCHES, GHOSTS, ETC., HOLD SWAY FOR NIGHT

A number of the members of the "younger set" entertained their friends at a masquerade cabaret dance in the Masonic hall on Thursday evening.

The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion with black and orange streamers, cats, witches, etc. The tables forming a circle being nicely decorated also.

After supper was served, a cabaret entertainment was supplied by the following: Mr. Alex Adams played a couple of very enjoyable numbers on the violin with Mr. G. Girard at the piano. Mr. George Glass entertained with the ever-popular monologue "China Town" with four young ladies dressed as Chinese assisting in the chorus. Mr. Henry Leroux dressed as a Dutch boy gave a dancing number. The final and very enjoyable number was a song, "School Days" given by Mr. Percy Wilkins dressed as "Huckleberry Finn."

The prizes for the most original costumes were awarded to Miss Ada Snyder (ballet dancer) and Mr. Kirk Snyder (totem pole).

After the judging of the costumes dancing was continued until the wee small hours.

Enumerators' Lists Can Be Seen at Star Office

LIST OF VOTERS SHOULD BE CHECKED BY ALL ELIGIBLE

The enumerators having completed their duties with regard to preparing the list of all those entitled to vote in the elections which may be called at any time in the near future, such lists are now available at The Star office, and it behooves all eligible voters to ascertain that their names are included.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 13-14-15th, the enumerators will sit at The Star office for the final revision of the list after which date the revised copies will be declared to be the list of names of those eligible to vote for parliamentary candidates. No further revision of the lists is arranged for, nor can a voter "sneak in" his vote on election day. Check the list NOW.

Poles Will Welcome Wainwright Buffalo

Four husky buffaloes from Wainwright, Alberta, will sail from Halifax to Poland on November 10th, where they will have their permanent home in the government park of that nation, according to P. Tarasow, member of the Polish committee which is raising funds for transportation of the animals to Poland. The Canadian buffaloes are the gift from the federal department to the Polish people, and the animals will be kept in a park at Spala, Poland, near the residence of the president of the Polish republic.

Mr. M. D. Meade, Wainwright Vice-President, Mr. O. W. Murray, Wainwright, Sec-treas-Miss H. Guley, Edgerton.

At six o'clock a very enjoyable banquet was served under the able supervision of the lady members of the Wainwright school staff. Mr. W. Thorsen, president of the Wainwright town local, being master of ceremonies. At the conclusion of the banquet the guests enjoyed vocal solos by Mrs. J. M. Sweeney and Miss Nita Condon.

The after-dinner speaker for the evening was Mr. H. G. Clark of Eastwood high school, Edmonton, and his words of advice and encouragement to young teachers were delivered with enviable fluency.

A fitting musical background for the festivities was supplied by Mr. Girard at the piano.

WEDDING BELLS

HAIRE-McLACHLAN

At 3 p.m. on the afternoon of October 24th, the marriage took place of Laura Anna Jean McLachlan and Robert Haire at St. Andrew's (Pres.) church, the pastor, Rev. W. S. Brook, officiating.

The bride, who was attired in a pretty gown of silver white lace with a conventional wreath of orange blossoms and veil, carried a shower bouquet of chrysanthemums and fern, and was attended by her sister Miss Kathleen McLachlan, dressed in coral pink ensemble. She was given in marriage by her father, and Mr. C. H. Harris supported the groom. During the ceremony Mr. W. Carrell officiated at the organ. After the nuptials, guests to the number of 36 gathered at the home of the bride for the wedding dinner, where an elaborate buffet luncheon was served. The happy couple were the recipients of a large number of handsome and useful gifts. They will reside at Baxter lake.

KELLY-CASPER

On Monday morning at the home of the bridegroom's parents at Gilt Edge, the Rev. W. S. Brook, pastor of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church, united in the bonds of holy matrimony, Miss Ivel Jean Casper and Mr. Robert Kelly.

The bride who was tastefully attired in white and carried a bouquet of flowers, was supported by her sister Miss Ivel Casper, while Mr. David Kelly acted as best man.

The young couple will take up residence on the groom's farm at Gilt Edge.

KNUTSON-CARLSON

At the United church parsonage on Monday afternoon, the pastor Rev. T. Edgar Armstrong officiated at the wedding of a couple of young people from Hugenheim, in the persons of Miss Edith I. Carlson and Mr. Joseph Stanley Knutson. The ceremony was officially witnessed by Miss Helen Carlson and Mr. J. Johnson, also from Hugenheim.

After a short honeymoon at east-end points, the happy couple will return to take up residence on the groom's farm in the Hugenheim district.

BIRTLES-PENNING

Quite a nice crowd was present at St. Andrew's (Pres.) church on Monday afternoon last to witness the nuptial ceremony between Miss Marie Penning, of Wainwright, and Mr. Frederick Birtles, of Greenfield.

ROLAND GODFREY BURDEN IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Mr. Roland Godfrey Burden, who passed away at his home at Fabian on October 22 at the age of 20 years, after a long illness, took place at Wainwright cemetery on Wednesday last, with the Rev. C. N. Bateman, of St. Thomas' church in charge of the service at both church and graveside; McLeod's parlors handling the arrangements.

The late Mr. Burden, who was born in Portsmouth, England, came to reside with his uncle at Fabian, some seven years ago. He leaves a number of relatives both in the Old Country and in this district.

LOCAL NOTES

We learn that Mr. Doug. Jackson, of Greenfield, is planning to leave this week for a trip to Cold lake and other north points.

We learn that Miss Violet Edwards, formerly on the staff of the Bank of Montreal here, has been transferred from Greenfield to Edgerton. She stayed over last week end in town as the guest of Mrs. W. A. Knowles.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Stevanow who have been away in Saskatchewan where Frank was drilling an oil well have again returned to town.

Owing to tomorrow (Thursday) being All Saints' Day, the service of Holy Communion will be celebrated at St. Thomas' church at 9 a.m. with the vicar officiating.

Mr. Tom Sugars, who for years has been connected with the oil business in this district was a visitor to town over the week end.

To provide additional accommodation at the refinery site, the Gold Standard Oil Ltd., are moving some of the buildings from the well on the Sater farm.

Taken ill suddenly on Sunday evening, Mr. Geo. Steel was moved to hospital on Monday and underwent an operation for appendicitis, he is getting along nicely now and feeling much better.

Did you meet the "Great Togo" yet? We understand he is on his way here for the big dogs at the theatre on November 23rd next.

Regular evening services are now being conducted every Sunday at 7:45 p.m. in the L.O.O.F. hall by pastor Fred Bennett of the Moody Bible Institute, of Chicago. The topic for next Sunday will be "My own personal testimony, or how I was led to the Lord." All are welcome.

Messrs. Forster, Bonner, Cluff and Martin journeyed to Vermilion on Monday to attend the big Liberal economic conference being held there on that evening by the leaders of the party.

Mr. John Scott, of Olds, is in town on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Stuart for a short while.

According to advices from Ottawa, the edict has gone forth that a "Two Minutes Silence" is to be observed at 11 a.m. on Sunday, November 11th in honor of our glorious dead.

Mr. M. R. Cowell, president of the Gold Standard Oil is spending a few days in town on business.

Mrs. W. Seale, of Battle View, has had Mrs. Church, ar. as her guest during the past week.

The weather of the past week has certainly been delightful to all, and though the air has been chilly at times, and the sky overcast the threatened snowfall is still holding off. Truly "Indian Summer"—and so far as we are concerned it can stay till Christmas.

Bill Stuart reports a record crowd and a splendid sale at the DeVos farm at Kinross last week. Prices ruled high, too, so everybody was satisfied.

Wheat Crop In Alberta Largest

YIELD PER ACRE OF WHEAT IN THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES 1934

According to information supplied by road crop correspondents, the yield per acre of wheat in the Prairie Provinces for 1934 is as follows:

Province	Yield per Acre (Bushels)
Alberta	25-35
Saskatchewan	20-30
Manitoba	15-20
Ontario	10-15
Quebec	5-10
Atlantic	0-5

This map, prepared by Searle Grain Company, shows at a glance how the wheat crop is distributed. The devastating effect of drought is shown by the blank space on the central southern prairies, indicating according to the legend of the chart at the upper right, a crop of four bushels per acre down to a total failure. Edmonton and Peace River areas in Alberta bear the heaviest shading, indicating a wheat crop of 25 bushels and over per acre. Alberta with 7,501,000 acres sown to wheat is estimated to have a crop of 105,000,000 bushels an average of 14 bushels per acre. Saskatchewan with 13,262,000 acres raised 99,388,000 bushels and Manitoba with 2,533,000 acres in wheat produced 35,112,000 bushels, according to Searle's final estimates.

Teachers' Association Convention Nov. 8-9

The 13th annual convention of the teachers of the Wainwright inspectorate will be held in Wainwright on November 8th and 9th.

Registration begins at 9 a.m., November 8th and this will be followed by addresses of welcome from Mayor Forster on behalf of the town of Wainwright and Mrs. M. L. Courcier on behalf of the Wainwright public school board. Following these addresses an open discussion of the annual musical festival will be held.

The afternoon sessions will be addressed by Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the university of Alberta, and Mr. Vernon Harford of Edmonton. It is felt that these addresses will be of interest to all and the general public are heartily invited to attend.

During the evening of November 8th an open public meeting will be held in the Elite Theatre, commencing at 8 p.m. The speaker of the evening will be Dr. Wallace, president of the university. We strongly urge the public to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing one of the foremost educationalists of Western Canada and a large attendance is hoped for. There will be no admission charge.

Games, contests, etc., were all participated in by those present, and during the singing of "A little grey home in the west" Mrs. Ford asked the bride's acceptance of a very appropriate "Little grey house" containing the gifts, and in a few well-chosen words expressed the community's appreciation and thanks to Mrs. Swindlehurst for her untiring efforts and willingness to help at all times in the promotion of community spirit and good fellowship.

The bride then opened the parcels from the wedding house and expressed her thanks to each one after which a delightful lunch was served by the hostess.

The home of Mrs. Fred Ford, at Heath, was filled with a merry bunch on Saturday afternoon, when some 40 guests gathered to do honor to a recent bride in the person of Mrs. E. Swindlehurst, of Edgerton. The affair took the form of a kitchen shower.

SILVER . . . and trade boom
The Chinese Government has proposed to the United States Government against the policy of buying silver, which has forced the price of metal up in the world markets to nearly 60c an ounce. China has levied an export tax on silver, so much was being drawn out of that country. Regular readers of this column will remember that I pointed out, more than three years ago, that an increase in the price of silver to its pre-war average would make it impossible for China and other silver-money countries to compete unfairly with the gold standard nations in international trade. The silver policy adopted at Washington has had just that effect.

As an amateur economist, I want to register another guess about international money. It will not be very long before France de-values the franc again, and the other gold standard nations will follow suit. Then a complete equalization of the values of the currencies of all nations will be possible and international trade will begin to boom again all over the world.

If Europe had recovered financially from the last war, the present situation would look more war-like to me. I don't think any nation, except France, could finance a war at this time; nor do I believe any of them wants to fight.

PEACE . . . resolutions
I have to smile, though somewhat sadly, at the numerous peace movements among well-meaning persons who haven't the remotest notion of the causes of war. Ladies' sewing circles adopting resolutions against war will never bring peace.

I counted up a while ago the major wars that had been fought in the world since the United States declared its independence. They totalled more than thirty. Our own was on the list involved in seven of them. But let some able propagandist convince the people of the United States that some other nation is treading on our toes, or threatening to deprive us of some of our rights on the seas, and see how quickly the young men of America will rush to enlist for war! I do not expect to live to see the last threat against the world's peace removed. My great-grandchildren, if such there be, will not see it. Meantime, peace societies will continue resolving but wise statements will be printed for war in time of peace.

MORALS . . . then and now

I am not one of those who believe that the moral standards of the human race are deteriorating. I don't know that I would say they are improving, but, taken by and large, I think there is little difference between the morals of 1934 and those of the period of my own adolescence, say 1884.

The principal difference is that people talk and write more about breaches of morals than they used to in the days when such things were not discussed in public. Boys and girls behave about the same as they used to, and I think about the only difference is that there is less parental restraint. There are more divorces, true, but that doesn't signify for divorce fifty years ago as now. It is simply that it is no longer regarded as disgraceful to be divorced.

Just now many things are done and exploited publicly that used to be regarded as strictly private affairs. The pendulum will swing back, as it has many times in the course of history, and we shall see another era of hushing up moral lapses instead of magnifying or glorifying them.

SLAT'S DIARY

Friday—Ant Emmy had a bad attack of Billyus trouble today and this evening Pa called up the Dr. on the telephone and had him come up to the House but when he got here and they told Ant Emmy who it was she sent word down stairs to tell him to cum tomorrow because she was too sick to see any body. Saturday—well I guess I am absent minded. Ma went away to see her sick sister last night and won't be home till Tuesday night and I went a hed and took a bath this afternoon and I really believe I got by with out taking a bath today. Cant be helped now.

Sunday—Pa spent a miserable day today because Ma was absent at home. He all ways enjoys his Sundays when he and her can set a round and I feel that he had just had to keep quiet so as not to wake Ant Emmy up, which is getting better now.

Munday—Pa printed a piece in the noose paper about Old Mrs. Brett celebrating her 60th wedding anniversary and she was a telling about her dress and spoke of her looking like a pitcher of lavender and old lace.

Tuesday—well Ma cum home today and started in a jawing at me because I didn't do every thing she wanted done and she sed she had been trying to larn me to take care of things and nothing I dun was right well I guess she is a offie failure as a mother.

Wednesday—Ever since Blisters went to see the Circus and all the Animals he has been trying his best to sport water throw his nose like a B.C. Tuesday—Ma was sewing when she cum home Tuesday the train was so crowded she had to sed with Mrs. Trellis and they are not on smoking trains for the last 2 years so all in all it was a very restful journey for both of them.

CANADIAN GARDEN SERVICE

PLANT TULIPS OUTSIDE NOW

October is the best time to plant spring flowering tulips in most parts of Canada. If put in too early they are liable to make too much top growth before the winter freeze-up and sometimes this is the reason why they refuse to bloom the next season. Little danger is risked in leaving planting until late so long, of course, as it is done before the ground is actually frozen solid.

Heavy large bulbs are of prime importance as the size of the flower is absolutely dependent on the size of the bulb. A light weight specimen may not bloom at all. It is also important to secure supplies from a seed house where the bulbs have been kept in a cool place and are clean, heavy, solid and free from all signs of mould. When certain popular varieties are wanted orders must be placed early as these may be sold out quickly.

There are three types of tulips which are planted at this time and as they come in different shades and heights a whole garden may be made from them alone. Judged by the bloom produced, bulb culture is the simplest and in some respects the most satisfactory type of gardening. There are very early tulips which will bloom outside in early May and these are followed by the very large and very tall, Breeder and Darwin which have stems up to 30 inches long and open in all their glory about the end of May. If something out of the ordinary is wanted, the frilly edged Parrot and other novelty tulips may be used. The depth to plant will depend upon the height. The early, single ones go in about six to ten inches, the lighter the soil the deeper the planting, and the Darwin and Breeder from ten to fifteen inches.

OTHER RULES

But gardeners should not get the idea that there are only tulips to be planted at this time. Daffodils, hyacinths, snow drops, freenias and many other little bulbs will help brighten the garden in early spring when without them it would be a rather drab affair. These bulbs will come on from the time the snow leaves until the regular perennials and shrubbery are ready to carry on. It is a splendid idea to plant bulbs along the edges of the shrubbery and also around a house, or rather to set annuals above the tulips when the latter are through blooming. In this way the dying foliage of the bulbs will be hidden.

HAVE FLOWERS ALL WINTER

Even in the colder parts of Canada bloom indoors all winter is quite possible where bulbs are planted. Before flowering these will stand a temperature of down to freezing, in fact in the early stages, they are better for it, and aside from a little normal room heat just when they are ready to open, a fairly cool temperature is again desirable. Incidentally even the most delicate of hot house blooms will last longer, once the flowers are open in a cool room rather than a warm one. Tulips, narcissus, daffodils, hyacinths, Chinese Lilies and other bulbs will all bloom indoors. With the tulips it is well to get the early single varieties, but with the others they do about as well indoors as outside.

THE CHURCH SUPPER

There's one event in social life which changes seems to be. Year after year since I was just a child at mother's knee the supper at the church has kept on goodly folks its grip. To fashion evenings now and then for human fellowship.

But as it was long years ago I see it still today. Though countless other customs have worn out and passed away. Still do the mothers of the flock together meet to plan. A supper that will glad the heart of every hungry man.

Still do they bake their pans of beans and flaky chicken pie. And write their lists of this and that which each one must supply. Still do they work the whole day long with fervor and zeal. And set the table and at last to cook and serve the meal.

Still do pretty girls line up with those black oval trays. And each to some young man that comes to her special favor pays. Still when the feasting is over the soprano sings a song. And some invited speaker makes a speech that's much too long. Then to a rising vote of thanks the weary women bow.

They did that fifty years ago, and still they do it now. Church suppers! May they carry on in parish large or small. Against the changing tides of life this old world needs them all. For while they stay it's very clear there still is something good. In human hearts and something very brave in womanhood.

The stories of achievement of the boy and girl members, in fitting themselves for a life of usefulness, are almost always an inspiration which insures interest.

HOLD LAMB SHOW

Four-H club boys of Indiana recently put on a great show of lambs at the stockyards at Indianapolis. It was the fifth annual event. Judges said it would have "hustled" a veteran lamb producer to win a place in the competition.

The lambs were shown in three classes: pen of three, pen of five, and county group. When all the boys had brought out their entries of three lambs there were 66 pens shown. The winner received a $10 cash prize, and the next 14 got prizes ranging down to $3.00.

Twenty-two lads entered pens of five lambs with prizes ranging from $12.00 to $5.00. Each county group received $5.00.

The prize money is provided by the stockyard company, packers and commission firms interested in raising the quality of lambs raised in the state. The project also has the active co-operation of Purdue extension leaders and club folks. Its educational effect reaches far beyond the actual club members participating.

The show's educational value does not stop with the ring competition. The lambs are auctioned off afterward and the judgment of the buyers reflected in what they pay for the lambs. It's the latter that boys learn quickly why the blocky, meaty lamb outsells the leggy, thin meated one.

The show is only one feature of this annual affair. Boys get a lot of advice from men of experience. They were urged by Down Skinner, of the State Agricultural College to adopt a slogan, one acre of alfalfa for each five ewes and lambs. This will aid in making the adjustment from grain to forage which our agricultural situation requires.

The whole bunch was treated to a modern swimming hole when a big hotel turned its pool over to them.

SEDATIVE DRUGS

A good general knowledge of sedative drugs is always desirable; for it has seemed to me that half the world is engaged in hawking "dope" of some kind or other, alleged to relieve pain, or produce "sound refreshing sleep". These things sell in enormous quantities—and usually at enormous profits. However, the advice I want to give in this little talk is, to be extremely cautious in pain-relievers and sleep producers that are offered for your use, by the horde of nostrum-vendors that beset you on every hand.

Opium is the king of pain-relievers; but it is a dangerous habit-former. A very wise law protects the public, and you cannot get opiates without a prescription from a licensed physician. This is as it should be. My favorite opiate is codeine, as a sedative for harassing coughs.

The vast majority of modern sedatives are based on a drug known as "barbital". This is capable of doing much good, but as is always the case, it had better be given under the advice of a capable physician. I would beware of the medicine-peddler. Certain vegetable drugs have long been utilized as nerve-sedatives and tranquilizers for nervous patients. I refer to hyoscyamus, passiflora, and such like. All have merit in suitable cases.

Then, the older sedatives, the "cool-tars". The head of this group is acetanilide. These things act very decidedly on the circulation, and may be positively dangerous for weak or failing hearts. Shun, as a rule, the commercialized pain-killing tablets which are hawked to all who will listen.

Pattern 8330: Little children love to dress in gay, new frocks and go to a party. Such a frock as the one sketched. It is gay and becoming. The yoke and puff sleeves are cut in one with the panels. There are no many pieces in this pattern, though the effect of the panels, in front and back and repeated at the sides, is quite complicated. The gathered sections of the dress which are sewed into the yoke at the top and along the panels at the side edges are simple to sew. A narrow band finishes the sleeves and the dress is opened on the shoulders, with buttons and buttonholes. Printed silk or taffeta would be sweet in this design and quite party-suit.

Estimates Say Crop

About Same as 1933

MUCH LOWER THAN AVERAGE OF LAST TEN YEARS

The crop report gathered by the Bank of Montreal shows the year's crop in the Prairie Provinces was a gain light with yields of other cereals also low in figures. The estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics places the wheat production of the Prairie Provinces at 205,000,000 bushels or about the same as last year, which compares with an average of 384,000,000 bushels over the past ten years. Coarse grains on the Prairies were a light crop with an estimate of 196,000,000 bushels for oats and 49-50,000,000 bushels for barley slightly better than last year. In Quebec Province the yield of hay was slightly below average with that of rye and corn. Corn-WYPPRRHMM cereals and roots good while the apple crop was far below average. In Ontario the yield of fall wheat was poor but that of spring grains was somewhat better than average. Hay was 50 per cent of average with fodder corn and roots a good crop but apples and peaches much below average. In Maritime Provinces the hay crop was considerably below average and the yield of cereals restricted by dry weather, the apple crop was light except for late yields in Nova Scotia, which will be better than average. Potatoes were a large crop in New Brunswick with fair yields in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. In British Columbia crops generally were of good yield and quality and matured several weeks earlier than usual.

On the Prairies seeding commenced in good time, and while initial moisture conditions were fair, subsoil reserves were lacking over large areas in Southern Saskatchewan and southwestern Manitoba. Spring precipitation was generally scant and great damage resulted from drought in May. Conditions were alleviated by June rains but drought and heat prevailed during July and the balance of the growing season. Conditions were more favorable in Alberta and northern Saskatchewan and Northern Manitoba, but over most of the southern areas crops deteriorated throughout the season, resulting in light yields over large territories. There was a virtual crop failure of wheat and coarse grains in southwestern Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan.

Grasshopper ravages were less extensive than last year. Hail damage was serious over limited areas in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Generally speaking, crops were satisfactory in the northern areas of the three Provinces and particularly good in the Red River Valley and Portage Plains, in Manitoba and in the Peace River district of Alberta. Early threshed grain graded high but there will be much low grade wheat in the northern areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta where grain has been damaged by frost and rain. Average wheat yields by Provinces estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics are as follows—Manitoba 13.7 bushels Saskatchewan 8.6, Alberta 15.4. The Alberta sugar beet yield estimated at 150,000 tons compares with 140,000 tons last year.

THE IMPORTANCE OF MILK

Children's meals should be built around milk for it is a food which makes valuable contribution to the normal growth and health of their rapidly growing bodies. Milk not only supplies proteins of highest quality for muscle building, fat and sugar for heat and energy, vitamins for protection, but is the most abundant source of calcium and one of the best sources of phosphorus, the two minerals which form the foundation of bones and teeth. It is, therefore, of paramount importance that every child should have sufficient milk to insure the development of a firm set of teeth and of a well constructed body framework.

Eminent authorities are agreed that a child requires about a quart of milk each day. This amount may easily be provided by serving milk as a beverage and by using it freely in making cream soups, milk puddings and other nourishing dishes. Children should be taught to drink milk slowly and to take it at the end of the meal, as they may neglect to chew their food thoroughly if they drink milk along with it.

The majority of children like to drink milk, but occasionally there is a child who is not fond of milk, in which case the mother is confronted with a real problem. Patiently and tactfully she must create a "milk appetite" in the child, by preparing it in appealing ways. Good results have been obtained, particularly with younger children, by using simple methods such as these: allow them to drink the milk through a straw; change the appearance and flavor of the milk by adding a small amount of chocolate, caramel or maple syrup; fruit juice or honey, tell them interesting stories which incidentally bring out the value of milk; allow them to serve themselves a child likes to be independent and enjoys using his own pitcher and pouring the milk into his glass; paste a colored picture on the bottom of the glass.

The child is attracted by color and will drink the milk in order to see the picture which should be changed frequently; children are hero-worshippers. Tell them about the athletes and other well-known people who drink milk in order to grow strong.

SNOORING

People who sleep with their mouth open are the ones who snore, so it follows that the way to avoid snoring is to sleep with the mouth closed, making use of the nose for breathing.

It has been said that more than one person in ten is a chronic snorer. By that we mean that more or less regularly, for at least part of each night, they open their mouths to breathe and indulge themselves in producing those vibrating sounds which we call snores.

All snoring is noisy. Apparently men are the chief offenders, at any rate, as snorers they make the greater amount of noise. Among those conditions which favor sleep is quiet. Therefore whether he be in the home or in the pullman car, the snorer is a disturber of the sleep of others even if he does not awaken himself with the noise he produces.

Babies snore, but after childhood, there are few snorers under thirty years of age. It is after thirty that snoring becomes a habit. The cause underlying the habit does not lie in the subconscious mind, but in the open mouth.

There are several reasons why our mouths open when we sleep. It commonly occurs when we fall asleep while in a chair, or when we lie on our backs in bed. In such cases the muscles which support and hold up the lower jaw relax, and the mouth falls open.

The most common cause of snoring, however, is some abnormal condition of the nose, which more or less blocks the free flow of air in and out. When this occurs, the air in the nose, particularly if the nose is congested or blocked, which during the day would be expelled, and so first of all, there is a wheezing as the air is forced through the secretions, and later the mouth opens and snoring follows. Snoring is more common in winter, because in winter there are more colds and other infections of the nose and throat.

The remedy lies, first of all, in having the nose and throat put into a healthy condition, obstructions removed and infection treated. In young children, this generally means the removal of adenoids and tonsils. Those who snore should not sleep lying on their backs. Those who have snored for years have developed a habit which takes time to correct, even after the underlying cause has been removed. It is not only for the sake of others that snorers should be controlled, but also to secure better rest for the snorer.

A PRECIOUS BOATLOAD

We have already considered the writing of the four gospels, the date of the first of them, Mark, is about 61, and Paul reached Corinth ten years earlier, in 51. Up to that time the story of the life of Jesus had been told orally. No one felt the need of a written biography; no one felt qualified to write it. So it was not with the gospels that the actual writing of the New Testament began, but with the letter which Paul in wrote to his old church in Thessalonica, the Epistle to the Thessalonians. You will be interested in the story.

Go back to the period before Paul's arrival in Corinth, to his crossing from old Troy to Europe. He had seen a vision of a man of Macedonia, Paul, to their joy they learned the little boat that carried him and his three companions, Timothy, Silas and Luke, bore the most precious freight that ever landed on the western shore of the Mediterranean. But Paul did not meet the man of Macedonia. For a good while he had a hard time. As we have already noted, he was beaten and imprisoned in Philippi, mobbed in Thessalonica, driven out of town from Berea, and flouted in Athens. "Our flesh had no rest," he wrote about those days. "Without were fightings and within were fears." When he arrived in Corinth he was alone, having left Silas at Berea, and Timothy at Thessalonica.

The weeks while he waited for them to come to him were a period in which Paul was very new to nervous prostration. If it had not been for Priscilla's good cooking and the companionship which he found with her and her husband he might have broken down entirely. His whole work since coming to Europe seemed a total failure. It has brought only hardship and humiliation.

He was afraid Timothy and Silas would never come. He was afraid they would be mobbed to death. And if they came he feared they would say: "It's no use. These people just won't hear the good news. In Philippi they say that if they had us back in jail we would never get out."

SOMETHING BETTER

From the Terminal Building, 420 feet high, we looked down upon the city of Cleveland: panoramas of Lake Erie, fine ships that seemed to say,
"Don't remind you of ocean
steampers?" and a far extended town of a million inhabitants. It was a sight one never forgets, even if it does not rival the view from the Empire State Building at New York.

But down there in the public square was a sight more interesting than houses, trees and gleaming stretches of water. It was a knot of human beings huddled by a communicative orator. As the little red flag flapped and fluttered, he held forth with passion. The sidewalks were lined with people waiting for the Decoration Day parade; the soldiers' and sailors' monument, massive and towering, was mutely eloquent, and here and there, in the side streets could be heard strains of patriotic music; but this orator talked of revolution to men and women whose eyes—we had passed the group before we entered the building—spoke of a hunger
for something better than the world had yet given them.

Something better! Always something better. And when at last humanity, through much agony, will have come upon the ideal economic system, not bound by narrow nationalism and free for the communists to use, it will still yearn for something better, something better than this earth
with all its food and flowers contains.
The human heart wants something better than this life could ever give.

SWEEPING OUT SWEEPING CLAIMS

Talking up a medicine to the crowd requires less courage than it used to.
The speaker is spared the ordeal of standing within a long and strong arm's reach of his auditors, some of whom have bayonetted in their hair but skepticism in their eyes. He won't be riden out of town on a rail for making spurious claims—not, at any rate, if he is up-to-date enough to sit in an advertising agent's chair, or stand before a microphone.

Even so, he can be made to desist
from attempts to pulverize the public.
An American advertiser of aspirin can bear witness to this fact. In the midst of selling its product the only genuine aspirin, accustomed to declare that its product "does not depress the heart," "does not upset the stomach," "is always safe," that it could be taken "every day without harm," "it always works," that "it cannot possibly hurt you," this company was accused of serious content to deceive the public. The Federal Trade Board requiring it to "cease and de-stine" from such claims unless properly qualified.

As Editor and Publisher points out,
the company is not engaged in making statements based on reputable medical opinion or recognized literature, but from advertising that its product is the only genuine aspirin, is always harmless and always effective. Probably no more people have believed these sweeping assertions than credit those that many advertisers make today. Indeed much of the type that makes skeptics of ten year olds. Nevertheless plenty of gullible persons are still within earshot of eye-shot of spurious advertising,
and need the protection that careful regulation of advertising provides.

The aspirin company's case offers a sample of methods too widely applied in current advertising. While the public is commending the Federal Trade Commission's good work in this instance, it should jot down on its "memo" pad the need of continued vigilance, and for such increase in control as could be provided by legislation similar to the Tugwell bill—

Buffalo Coulee Council Hold Regular Meeting

(Crowded out last week)

The regular monthly meeting of the Council of the Buffalo Coulee M.D.
was held on October 13th with Rev.
Phaeasey presiding.

On motion by Coun. Hetherington,
the minutes of the previous meeting
of Council were adopted as read.

Monthly statement for September was read by the Secretary and signed by the Reeve.

Secretary was instructed to issue
the following orders for relief: T. G.
Upshall, $11.00; Agnes Baldwin, $12.00; Jas. Mundle, $6.00 for the month of October. Also to write the Relief Department for further information regarding incoming settlers
and the status of their relief.

Mr. and Mrs. Haakon Emsland attended and protested against seizure made on the S.E. 14-48-8-4 for taxes.

After some discussion they agreed to pay the market price for one-third share of 380 bushels of oats on the date of payment, and also the sum of $8 for the day under seizure. Council agreed to accept this and release seizure.

Secretary was instructed to advise
Messrs. Fred Bey and Andrew Greer
to redi holes dug on the road along
adjacent to their farms.

Letters were read in connection
with the Robert Brown estate, when Coun. Ramsey carried that papers be completed for the sale of U.G.G.
shares as outlined.

Coun. Dew reported regarding R.
W. Shupe claim for compensation.

Hospital notices for the month
were read. Secretary to advise University Hospital that Vivian Baldwin
had been taken to their hospital with out consent of the M.D. A letter from the Lamont public hospital was
also read, but no action taken, Council agreeing to wait further action by
them.

A circular letter from the D.M.A.
regarding approval of sale of lands
was read and discussed. Recommendation was given to application for approval of sale of the following
lands with results noted: S.W. 30-48-7-4, no action taken; N.W. 10-49-8-4,
no action taken; S.E. 14-48-8-4, secretary to write registered owner: S.W.
22-48-9-4, Coun. Ramsey to interview
L. H. Harne and if he gives his approval on the one-quarter, secretary
to reply for approval of sale; N.W. 6-49-9-4, secretary to reply for approval of sale; N.W. 28-49-9-4, secretary to write Mr. Neil McLeod; N.E.
36-49-8-4, S.W. 4-48-9-4, S.W. 28-48-
8-4, offer not accepted.

Coun. Ramsey moved and carried
that membership fee be paid to the
M.D. association and delegates to convention be appointed at November
meeting of Council.

Notice of approval of $25.00 per month Mothers' Allowance for Mrs.
Martha McDowell was read. Allowance to start as from October 1st.

The Reeve reported an interview
with Robert Fletcher, inspector for
the Child Welfare Department and
secretary was instructed to write for further information on motion of Coun. Ramsey.

Correspondence was read from the Public Utilities Commission regarding a proposed fuel oil station in the municipality. Coun. Hills carried
that this proposed fuel oil station be approved.

Secretary was instructed to notify
those on whom seizure had been made
that grain must be delivered within 10 days of date of said notice.

The Reeve moved and carried that
seizure be made on the chattels of Herman Zuberliher for taxes on the S.E. 15-49-9-4

ter was read from Cyril Hind demanding payment of $10.00 for road
work done and payment for which
was applied on the N.E. 36-48-8-4 against his wife. Secretary was instructed to take legal advice and to pay the $10.00 if so advised.

Further correspondence was read re
Mrs. Mark and children. No action.
Coun. Hills reported regarding the
H. Hedstrom estate.

Some discussion arose regarding
dates of adding penalties and expiration of discounts. It was agreed that threatening would be completed in
good time and there was no need to extend the time this year and that
the dates as set in the Acts should
be adhered to and thus give more time
for closing of the books and the completion of the audit. Coun. Dew
moved and carried that no discount
be allowed after 15th of December.

Case of Vivian Baldwin discussed.
Secretary instructed to write to D.
M.A. for information as to the responsibility of the M.D. for special treatment of indigents.

Coun. Dew carried that the Reeve and Coun. Hills be a committee to interview and deal with the application made by George Leeson for help from the municipal district.

Coun. Dew carried that following time sheets be passed and paid: Div.
1, $15; Div. 3, $126 and $54; Div. 5, $85.

The Reeve handed in the inspector's report which was read and discussed. Coun. Ramsey moved and carried that the same be accepted and placed on file.

Notice of expiration of municipal horse and cattle brands was read.
Coun. Ramsey carried that same be renewed and fees of $4.00 paid.

Bills and accounts amounting to $407.45 were passed for payment and
the Council adjourned.

Rambling 'Round New York

New day sign for a bar room seen in one of the better restaurants in Greenwich Village. We reserve the right to refuse to serve that one drink too many.

Newspapers called chief radio operator "Sparks" Rogers a hero of the Morro Castle fire. He was featured six times a day one week at one of Broadway's big movie houses.
Perhaps the "rubberneck wagons"
left four New York's Chinatown worried for wrong when they announced the district of opium dens.

Nine Chinese were arrested in Midt Street recently and four opium pipes five lamps and four scrapers were seized.

Summer's over, according to several developments in town: restaurants are putting the windows back in place, many of them were removed entirely to make open fronts for the summer, straw hats are gone; air-conditioning signs on restaurants are disappearing. . . . Those are just a few of the ways New Yorkers tell about the seasons in the absence of trees and flowers and plants that most of us know as children. Sometimes I wonder if they still grow. . .

A "blessed event" for munitions makers that Walter Winchell must have predicted is forecast by De-Weird in a new magazine called Lucky Systems. Doc, basing his forecast on numerology predicts that America will again be at war in April 1937,
and that our President in 1940 will be assassinated. And these are just two of the predictions. Nice figures!

Rain-coats to the rescue, sitting on an open bus-top in the rain going down Fifth Avenue at night; Central Park is shiny and green; that electric sign on Central Park south that spells out one word after another as though it were a huge ticker-tape,
takes an interminable length of time to get over the advertisements to the point where it spells out, "The Time Is Now 10.42." Incidentally, the news flashes spelled out in lights on the Times Building in Times Square, go completely around the building. . .

Back to Fifth Avenue, where they still working on the fountain in the Plaza at 59th st.; the lighted top of the Empire State Building barely visible through the rain; travel agency windows have an unusually high average in artistic posters; the Library at 42nd looks very grand and cold when the lights are out; it could do with a little cleaning, for the soot of the city has made its granite very black; the top of the Empire State Building is beautifully nazy new, like a changing soft-focus moving picture you've seen when the photographer wants you to see things through the heroine's tears; neon lights in purple and red and violet,
and white lights next to them to reflect a myriad of beautiful changing colors on the wet pavement, changing with the motion of the bus; how dreary those sidewalk cafes look in the rain—just canopies, bare tables and vacant chairs; doormen with huge umbrellas escorting the "cliff-dwellers" from curbs to their homes;
with hat streaming, I walk into my own doorway and watch my bus disappear.

Coun. Hills carried that seizure be made on chattels belonging to Wm.
Clelland for arrears of taxes on the N.W. 11-47-7-4, and also of Cyril Hind for arrears of taxes on the N.E. 30-48-8-4. Coun. Curran against. A letter was read from Cyril Hind demanding payment of $10.00 for road
work done and payment for which
was applied on the N.E. 36-48-8-4 against his wife. Secretary was instructed to take legal advice and to
pay the $10.00 if so advised.

Further correspondence was read re
Mrs. Mark and children. No action.
Coun. Hills reported regarding the
H. Hedstrom estate.

Some discussion arose regarding
dates of adding penalties and expiration of discounts. It was agreed
that threatening would be completed in
good time and there was no need to extend the time this year and that
the dates as set in the Acts should
be adhered to and thus give more time
for closing of the books and the completion of the audit. Coun. Dew
moved and carried that no discount
be allowed after 15th of December.

Bills and accounts amounting to $407.45 were passed for payment and
the Council adjourned.

Secretary was instructed to advise
Messrs. Fred Bey and Andrew Greer
to redi holes dug on the road along
adjacent to their farms.

Letters were read in connection
with the Robert Brown estate, when Coun. Ramsey carried that papers be
completed for the sale of U.G.G.
shares as outlined.

Coun. Dew reported regarding R.
W. Shupe claim for compensation.

Hospital notices for the month
were read. Secretary to advise University Hospital that Vivian Baldwin
had been taken to their hospital with
out consent of the M.D. A letter
from the Lamont public hospital was
also read, but no action taken, Council agreeing to wait further action by
them.

A circular letter from the D.M.A.
regarding approval of sale of lands
was read and discussed. Recommendation was given to application for
approval of sale of the following
lands with results noted: S.W. 30-48-
7-4, no action taken; N.W. 10-49-8-4,
no action taken; S.E. 14-48-8-4, secretary to write registered owner: S.W.
22-48-9-4, Coun. Ramsey to interview
L. H. Harne and if he gives his approval on the one-quarter, secretary
to reply for approval of sale; N.W. 6-49-9-4, secretary to reply for approval of sale; N.W. 28-49-9-4, secretary to write Mr. Neil McLeod; N.E.
36-49-8-4, S.W. 4-48-9-4, S.W. 28-48-
8-4, offer not accepted.

Coun. Ramsey moved and carried
that membership fee be paid to the
M.D. association and delegates to
convention be appointed at November
meeting of Council.

Notice of approval of $25.00 per
month Mothers' Allowance for Mrs.
Martha McDowell was read. Allowance to start as from October 1st.

The Reeve reported an interview
with Robert Fletcher, inspector for
the Child Welfare Department and
secretary was instructed to write for
further information on motion of Coun. Ramsey.

Correspondence was read from the Public Utilities Commission regarding a proposed fuel oil station in the municipality. Coun. Hills carried
that this proposed fuel oil station be
approved.

Secretary was instructed to notify
those on whom seizure had been made
that grain must be delivered within 10 days of date of said notice.

The Reeve moved and carried that
seizure be made on the chattels of
Herman Zuberliher for taxes on the

AMONG THE OLD-TIME R

"REMINISCES OF OTHER DAYS"

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. E. Williams is here from Gibsons, Alberta for a few days and will return shortly accompanied by her mother, Mrs. C. Love.

Mrs. C. Swick and baby are leaving soon to join her husband in Peru and we wish her "bon voyage" and a pleasant stay in her new South American home.

We understand that Mr. John Sutherland is in charge of the section at Fabyan during the prolonged illness of Mr. Latch.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Molinoux are leaving for Vancouver Island at once, Paul having obtained a position there.

Miss Edith Hart was spending the week end with her parents in town before returning to her duties at Manook, Alberta, where she again has charge of the school.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. F. Watts had the misfortune to suffer the amputation of one of his fingers last week. He was tying a horse and got his finger very badly smashed.

GREENSHIELDS

A party of fishermen and hunters including S. and G. Valieu, L. Hughes, W. Waddicombe and D. Jackson left the first of the week for Cudd Lake.

Ronald Morrison left at the week end for his home in Ontario where he is going to spend the winter.

A crowd of young people journeyed to Gilt Edge on Friday to F. Adam's wedding dance.

The voters list is now posted in the store. Be sure your name is there.

Friday evening last Miss Audrey Crichton and Larry Greer entertained their friends at a Halloween party.

The farmers of this district have formed a rural telephone line of their own. Directors are H. Jackson, R. Reid, S. Baker, H. Mills and T. Daniels.

A. H. Muddle had the misfortune of turning his car over near Heath school Sunday last. Fortunately he escaped without injury.

Miss F. Daniels has been visiting Miss Martin.

HOUSE LAKE

Mrs. Frank Cowan of Biggar, Saskatchewan, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Jackson.

Miss Emmy Johnson went to her father's Monday night to a farewell party for her brother Elmer who is leaving to attend the agriculture school at Vermilion, and also her uncle Heming who is leaving on a trip to Sweden.

Mrs. Alec. Plater is still in the leisure class with her broken arm. Her arm is improving nicely though.

Marshall Jackson brought down a nice 10 lb. goose Monday.

The pupils of House Lake school are giving a Halloween party and concert Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Ross Valieu sold a team of horses to Ray Carr at Heath last week.

SYDENHAM

Mr. and Mrs. F. Dixon were dinner guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Murray.

Miss M. Sinclair was a guest on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Huate.

Mr. H. Dowling spent Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dell.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Carl, Mr. B. Young were visiting on Sunday at the Seabrook home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Merrick spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Beckett were visitors on Sunday at the McKay farm.

Mrs. H. Schlitt and Iris and Mrs. W. Lyle spent Tuesday afternoon with Miss Georgina McKay the occasion being her fifth birthday.

A nice crowd gathered on Friday evening at the dance and whist drive at Sydenham, the McKay orchestra being in attendance. Prizes were awarded to the following: Ladies' 1st, Miss June Keen, 2nd, Mrs. J. Baker; Gent's 1st, S. Woodward, 2nd, Joe Clough.

Approximately 100 families have been moved to date this season from the drought area of south-eastern Alberta to new locations in the north country.

20 YEARS AGO

No. 1 wheat is now selling at $1.01 per bushel and the lower grades are correspondingly high.

While oiling the main gear at the elevator Jack Blair manager of the Pioneer Grain Company here sustained painful injuries from a mangled wrist and a crushed forearm bone.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Bowmen have moved in from their farm Northwest of town and are now living in a cottage on Fifth avenue.

William Tilley, of Arthand, Alberta, aged 23 years, met a very painful death when some coal-oil exploded on a stove and he was covered by the flaming liquid. He formerly worked here.

Pat Croken who now holds an important position with G.T.P. telephone and telegraph department is in town before leaving to assume duties in the east.

No explanation can be given for the case of the young man George Perold of Heath, after suffering some inconvenience (but no pain) from his leg for over three months, upon calling the attention of Doctor Little to the matter it was learned that there was a complete fracture of one of the bones.

LOCAL NOTES

The whist party which the members of the Catholic church staged at the Fabyan school saw a record crowd in attendance and a pleasant time resulted. Mrs. H. Messier and Mr. O. Michon were the prize winners. Dancing finished out the evening.

Owing to the receipt of news of the illness of Mr. G. Leroux at Gilt last week end, Mrs. Leroux made a hurried trip to that town.

The Rev. W. S. Brooker left Monday afternoon to attend a meeting of the synod of the Presbyterian church at Red Deer.

A very worth-while move, and one which should remove a lot of the hazards around town, has been the burning of several patches of grass and weeds under the supervision of the chairman of the Fire and Light committee of the Council this past week.

This week sees Mr. and Mrs. G. Gregson moved into their new home on Fourth avenue east.

During the past week Mr. Roy Carl has moved his family to a house on Seventh avenue west.

Miss F. Johnson, of Edgerton, was visiting Miss K. Boar for a few days.

HOPE VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chesterman visited Edgerton this week.

We are sorry to report that Mr. W. Perkins is on the sick list, the doctor having to be called out.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Taylor were in Edgerton and Red Deer last week and they traded in their Ford for a Chrysler.

Hope Valley was well represented at the Herd Bros. sale on Tuesday.

We are glad to report Mr. Shabin is doing nicely in hospital after his accident but Mrs. Shabin is now in hospital. We all hope she will soon be feeling fit again.

Jack Zajac and family have now left the district for somewhere in B.C.

We hear Mr. Joe Sewell and family have rented Mr. J. Zajac's, sr., land.

SLIGO

Mrs. A. M. Postans returned last Sunday from a two weeks visit with her daughter, Mrs. B. A. McDougall in Loughheed.

Mrs. C. G. Moore is spending a few days with her brother Mr. George Reynolds.

A number of people from this district attended the big sale of the Herd Bros. on Tuesday last. There was a very big crowd and things sold very well.

Mr. Albert Wilson, while on his way to Edgerton last week, had the surprising experience of seeing the front wheel of his truck go spinning along ahead of him. He was going down a hill at the time and the truck suddenly swerved to one side and through a fence into a stubble field. There was a loud crash on the truck and two passengers with him. Fortunately no one was hurt.

We are glad to hear that May Rowe is out of hospital and will soon be home.

Sunday School Lesson

By Chas. Dunn

Christian Growth.
Lesson for November 4th.
Luke 2:42-52.

Golden Text: 2nd Peter 3:18.
The appealing story of the boy Jesus in the temple, asking and answering questions, and astounding his elders by his wisdom, reminds us of the teaching task of the Christian church. Every parish should provide abundant opportunity for the presentation and discussion of vital issues involved in the Christian vocation.

Protestantism is woefully weak in its exercise of its teaching function. The successful propaganda of the Roman church puts it to shame. A protestant can attend his meeting-house for years, and never find out what Protestantism really is.

For this state of affairs the clergy are in part to blame. Vast numbers of them are not students. They spend far more on gasoline than on books. Many ministers do not aim to instruct their people at all. They aspire to be promoters, showmen, Chautauque managers.

But the people also are at fault. How much real reading, thinking and praying does the average person in the pew engage in? Not very much. His mind is pretty largely a blank. One is reminded of the complaint of Isaiah: "The ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib; but Israel doth not know, my people doth not consider."

What is the remedy? First of all we must glorify the teaching function of the ministry. Of course the minister is a prophet as well as a priest, a shepherd, a friend, an administrators. But the minister is also a teacher whose duty is to systematically instruct the flock committed to his care.

Secondly we must put our energy into religious education rather than revivalism. It is used to be said, "When is a school not a school? When is a Sunday school?" May God speed the day when such a taunt will be out of place.

A cruise that leaves the beaten track of world tour ships to explore the changing worlds of Africa and South America has been planned by the Canadian Pacific for the 21,000-ton liner Empress of Australia this winter.

In three months, 36 days to be exact, this great white liner will circle the dark continent of Africa via the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean, cross the South Atlantic, calling at lonely Tristan da Cunha, to visit the South American continent and the West Indies. There are also 26 ports in 22 different countries on the scheduled departure will be from New York on January 18 and return there on April 24.

Madeira, Gibraltar, Barcelona, Monte Carlo, Nice, Naples, and Athens will be visited during the European part of the cruise, then Palestine and Egypt. In East Africa the Empress of Australia's cruise party will spend three days, visiting Mombasa in Kenya Colony, the Island Marques, Portuguese East Africa, a call will be made at Mapungu Bay, on the French island of Madagascar.

Two whole weeks are spent in South Africa, forming part of the experience Capetown on the liner's schedule, but five optional excursions by special trains will be made through the interior.

Victoria Falls, Johannesburg, Pretoria, Bulawayo, Kimberley, the diamond mines and goldfields, Pietermaritzburg, the Big Game Reserve and Kruger National Park are some of the highlights of these excursions.

The Western Hemisphere will be reached again on March 28, when the Empress docks at Buenos Aires. Two days will be spent in this gay capital of the Argentine and a day at Montevideo, capital of Uruguay. The coffee port of Santos, Sao Paulo, and beautiful Rio de Janeiro will be the Brazilian place of interest visited, then the final ten days of the cruise will be spent in the Caribbean waters, calling at La Brea and Trinidad, Port of Spain, Kingston, Jamaica, and Havana, Cuba.

HEATH

Miss M. Brown, teacher at Arm Lake school has secured the film of Jackie Coogan in "My Boy" and a Mickey Mouse comedy, and these will be shown at the school on Thursday November 15th. The show will be followed by a dance and a large crowd is hoped for.

St. Patrick's (Ang.) church was filled to capacity on Sunday last, when no less than three babies were baptized by Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Edgerton, who conducted the service. The three young members of the church were the infant sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. Withnell and Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bartlett.

Very fortunately, serious injury was averted when the car which Mr. Henry Muddle was driving on the road near Heath last week end was overturned.

The W. A. of St. Patrick's (Ang.) church are arranging to hold a chicken supper at the home of Mrs. J. Ford on November 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. B. McLeod and Mr. and Mrs. Cummings and Jean spent Sunday last with Mr. and Mrs. Roberts at Edgerton.

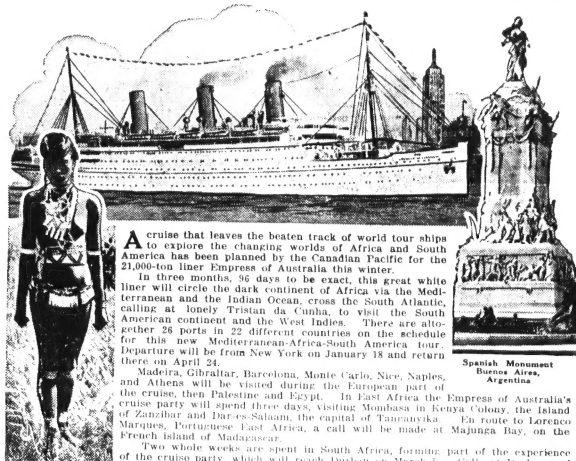

The barn at the rear of the mission church is now completed in preparation for the harder winter weather.

Several meetings are being held regarding the forming of a mutual telephone company for this district to take over the former rural No. 13 line.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith had as their guests on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown and daughter, all from Winter, Sask.

Mr. P. Burnham is spending the winter with friends in Edgerton while convalescing from his recent illness.

Among the greatest assets a town should have are cleanliness, beauty, enterprise and a spirit to do greater things.

Synopsis
 "Prelude" . . . "Love Lightly." Mrs. Church warned gently, and Ellen wondered why? Posing for her talented mother, first as a new baby, then a bubbling child, then a charming young girl, Ellen had lived always in a make-believe land of beauty. Of the outside world her knowledge was meager. At 17 years of age, leaving in the garden, Ellen at last is learning the story of her mother's broken life, the stolen kiss, marriage—then years of loneliness, waiting for the husband to return Mrs. Church is now telling Ellen of the father . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Your father was away when I made my discovery. He'd been away for several weeks on something that he called a 'big deal.' I was expecting him home the very night I saw the doctor, and I planned to tell him all about you, at once. So I sat in the garden and waited for him, and watched for his train. And finally I saw it. The train that you were going to be a boy! but he didn't come, although I waited all of that night . . . And the next day, when I got the message that told me he wasn't coming back, ever, I went upstairs, and into my room and locked the door. And I sat down and began to knit a blue sweater for you. And I whistled, hard, as I knitted. I haven't whistled since—and I certainly never whistled before! That's why, I guess, you were a girl . . . A boy wouldn't have had any use for a mother who whistled so badly. . . . A boy . . ."

All at once Ellen's mother had stopped talking. Her voice had dwindled away into a funny, tragic silence. And Ellen saw her face go oddly white, felt her hand go chill and limp. It was then that Ellen, starting to her feet, saw her mother's head sag forward.

"I'm going for the doctor," she sobbed. "Your chest . . . Is it your heart darling?"

Weeks that passed, to ask her mother for the details of what had happened to her father. In her mind she had a vivid impression of some major calamity of a train wreck or an automobile disaster. Only a calamity could have kept her father from her mother at such a time, she was sure. And then, perhaps a month later, the special delivery letter arrived. It was the boy from the post office who brought the letter. Because her mother was at work she had signed for it, and dismissed the boy, before she spoke to the woman who painted so absently.

"It's a letter," she said, "a special delivery for you. I guess it's about the drawing you sent away last week."

We were expecting some word." With a start, her mother came back from the land of her own creation, to reality. With listless hands she took the envelope from her daughter, and slit it open. Ellen watched her mother idly—so idly that at first she could scarcely believe what her eyes were seeing! For, as she stood watching, she saw her mother change completely and dreadfully. More dreadfully than she had changed on that other day, weeks before. In a minutes she saw a lovely white-haired woman become a broken, shriveled, parchment-cheeked figure.

"You're ill!" Ellen cried, as she started forward. "Was there bad news in the letter? You're upset!" But when the answer came it wasn't an answer. For Ellen's mother, her hand pressed to her breast, was rising. And as she rose to her feet, she was looking beyond Ellen. She swayed slightly—and then, as if she couldn't help it, she sat down again. But her voice was steady, though toneless, when she spoke.

"It's that indignation, I guess," she said, gaspingly. And then—"Bring me my check book, dear." Ellen didn't speak. She sensed a desperation in that toneless voice, a need of hurry. Turning, she ran into the house, scurried to the desk where the check book lay. She brought it, and a fountain pen and stationery, to her mother, and watched as her mother's shaking hand wrote it to what, in Ellen's knowledge of the family finances, was an alarming amount. It was only after the check was carefully made out to a strange name, and as carefully blotted, that the woman spoke again. "Ellen dear," she said, "Get you hat and take this, at once, to the post-office in the village. And send it special delivery, and register it."

Ellen, even in the face of her mother's tragic hurry, couldn't quite grasp the seriousness of the letter. Her mother's sudden illness seemed so much more important. "Too bad I didn't ask the boy to wait," she said. "He could just as well have taken a letter back." "I couldn't," said her mother with a great effort, "have trusted it to anyone else, this letter! You'd have had to take it, anyway. . . . And I'm glad, remember that, always, Ellen! that it is just about all the money I have. I'm utterly grateful that there was enough. And—I don't want a doctor. I'm not ill. I'm never ill!" She rose again. She turned heavily toward the house. And Ellen, with no other word, but clutching the envelope, went out of the garden and started toward. She walked so fast that she didn't have time to wonder about anything. But she reached the post-office with a good margin of minutes, and followed her mother's instructions soberly, and started back home.

The way back led past the doctor's square white house. He wasn't in. But she left a message with the doctor's aged housekeeper—who eyed her with a frank curiosity—and hurried on.

"Mother'll be cross," she told herself, as she scuffed her feet along in the dust of the road—"because I've asked the doctor to stop by. But she can't go on having these funny spells! I wonder who the letter was from?"

The letter, Ellen couldn't hold her feeling that it held the elements of the mystery. It didn't, of that she was sure, sure to business, for what business dealings could have to do with the aid of the proper breakfast cereal. Such dishes when prepared in this manner are "different" as well as delicious—two reasons that will account for the appreciation and delight of both family and guests.

Where is the pantry shelf today that does not contain a package of bran or corn flakes? In thousands of homes both of these are to be found. Here are four recipes calling for the use of these particular ready-to-eat cereals. Try them and I feel sure you will appreciate what valuable assistance the convenient packages are.

All Bran Brown Bread
 1 cup bran
 1 cup sour milk
 1/2 cup raisins
 1 tablespoon molasses
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 cup flour
 1 teaspoon soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Mix together the bran, sour milk, and raisins, then add the molasses, sugar, and flour which has been sifted with the soda and salt. Put the mixture into a greased can, cover tightly, and steam for three hours.

Corn Flake Charlotte
 2 1/2 cups corn flakes
 2 cups sweetened apple sauce
 1/2 cup lemon
 Juice of 1/2 orange or lemon
 2 tablespoons butter
 In a buttered casserole spread a layer of corn flake crumbs. Cover with apple sauce, to which the fruit juice has been added. Top with corn flakes and dot with butter. Bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven (400 degrees F.). Serve with whipped cream. Yield: 6 servings.

Flanked Round Steak
 1 tablespoon fat
 1 tablespoon chopped onion
 2 eggs (beaten slightly)
 1 cup milk
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 cup chopped parsley
 1 1/2 pounds round steak (ground)
 1/2 pound pork (ground)
 2 cups corn flake crumbs
 2 slices bacon
 Sauté onion in fat. Beat eggs and add remainder of ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Form a flat loaf on a plink, shallow baking pan or platter. Place strips of bacon across top. Surround loaf with boiled potatoes. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Garnish platter with whole buttered onions and carrots in spiguet nests. Yield: 10 servings.

All-Bran Date Bars
 3 eggs
 1 cup nutmeats (chopped)
 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
 1/2 cup dates (cut fine)
 2 cup flour
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 cup bran
 Beat the eggs until light, add the sugar and beat well. Add the flour, nutmeats, dates, and bran. Mix thoroughly. Form a flat loaf on a plink, shallow baking pan or platter. Place strips of bacon across top. Surround loaf with boiled potatoes. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Garnish platter with whole buttered onions and carrots in spiguet nests. Yield: 10 servings.

ter ended, "that it matters much now. Only he was sort of proud always . . ."

Ellen, nothing, understood at last. But Ellen was never to know the details of her father's final degeneration, or of his death, or of his burial. All that she ever knew was that the last check her mother had written was returned, duly endorsed by some distant firm of undertakers, to the bank.

She never knew the final chapter of her mother's tragic story! But she did know, at last, why her mother had crept away from the city, from people who she had tried to shield her only child from cities, and from people.

The darkness creeping phoshtike into a room of sadness and death and despair, brought with it a swift memory of the garden, the garden as it had been a month before. Through that darkness Ellen could hear the approaching rumble of the doctor's Ford. But she was aware of it subjectively. The only actual sound that she heard was the echo of her mother's voice, speaking. Saying.

"Love lightly. Don't get intense about love. Don't give anything. . . . Take everything, but don't . . . Oh, it had been a magnificent life! Ellen's hand, wet with her own tears, reached up to touch her mother's chill fingers that had been clenched upon a cruel letter.

The house lay in the last light of the setting sun, it was her world.

Hints for the Household

FAMILIAR CEREALS IN VARIED GUISE

Within recent years there has been a rapid growth in the culinary uses of the familiar ready-to-eat cereals, and it is still true that in many homes the housewife reaches for the box of cereal only at breakfast time. She can add greatly to the variety and appeal of her menu once she realizes the manifold uses of these crispy foods.

Cookies, breads, muffins, macaroni, ginger cake, desserts and even meat dishes and casseroles may be made with the aid of the proper breakfast cereal. Such dishes when prepared in this manner are "different" as well as delicious—two reasons that will account for the appreciation and delight of both family and guests.

stuffed with the baking powder. Add bran, nuts and dates. Spread the mixture in a layer one-half inch thick in a greased shallow pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for about 20-30 minutes. Remove from the oven and while warm, cut into squares or bars. Roll the pieces in powdered sugar or serve as a pudding with whipped cream. Yield: 24 bars—1 1/2 inches.

GRAPES
 Now that the first frost has touched the grapes, they are at their best, and should be used raw as often as possible. Variety also may be got from the colors—deep luscious purples—dull reds—clear greens. All are a healthful tonic.

Special Grape Juice
 Make grape juice for winter use, either with purple or green varieties, as follows:
 1 quart of grapes and 1 cup of sugar. Thoroughly sterilize a quart sealer; fill with grapes without pressing down; add sugar shaking it through the grapes. Then fill the jar with boiling water; seal at once and store in a cool dark place three months before using.

Grape Jam
 Grape jams make a delicious breakfast sweet and no better recipe may be had than this:
 Heat the pulp until it softens and changes color a little; then press through a sieve. Add skins and cook 10 minutes. Measure, allowing 1 cup sugar to cups grapes. Cook 5 minutes. Seal while hot.

Grape Pie
 4 cups blue grapes
 1 cup sugar
 1 egg
 1 tablespoon quick tapioca
 A little grated orange rind Slip grape pulp from skins and cook until seeds are loosened. Press through a coarse sieve; add sugar, tapioca, and egg yolk, slightly beaten. Beat all together well; then add grape skins. Pour into a pie plate lined with plain pastry. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Lower heat to 350 degrees and bake 20 minutes longer. Sprinkle with grated orange rind; then cover with meringue made with egg white, to which 1 tablespoon of sugar is added. Brown in a slow oven.

When roasting chicken or turkey place the fowl with breast down in the baking pan for the first half hour of roasting. This allows the juices to flow into the breast, making it moist and tender.

For a change add beaten egg whites to caramel pie filling instead of using them for meringue. For variety, sprinkle some grated cheese over the top of raisin, apple or mince pie and heat for five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

HERE IT IS! SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Manufacturing CUSTOMERS

Thirty per cent of one's customers cease being customers every year. They die, or move away, or become disgruntled, or change over to some other retailer. This is a ghastly loss, and alas, it is one impossible to prevent. It means that a retailer has to be very, very busy every month, getting new customers to replace the monthly wastage, and to gain a few more customers in excess of the annual loss, in order that his business shall grow. The fatal thing is just to do nothing in the way of customer attraction and replacement.

How can new customers be attracted? Various things can be done. The most obvious way is just to ask non-customers to do business with you. That is the first thing to do. And your invitations will get attention just because so few retailers will be your competitors in this "asking" activity. You can ask people to do business with you by post, by personal calls and by newspaper advertising. And, of course, your store windows can and will be invitations.

Beyond asking, you must fulfil customers' expectations—this by the quality of your service and the rightness of your goods and prices. What customers like when they go into a store is attention and interest, without fussiness. They like briskness in those who serve them. Customers want nothing extraordinary—just plain attention and courtesy. Customers are continually measuring stores—matching one store's service, goods, prices and atmosphere against those of other stores, and they steadily drift to those stores where they are served, in all ways, most in accord with their likes. Newspaper advertising is the least costly—results considered.

No, But I Saw The Picture

By ANTHONY NORTH

A cylinder revolving 100 times a minute, moving horizontally one inch each minute... a beam of light... a light valve... a shutter opening and closing 1200 times per second... another machine of the Machine Age, finally perfected after an initial experiment costing $2,800,000.

It has been perfected in order to give you as you hurry home in the evening from your office a picture in your evening paper of the ship which sank that morning in the Golden Gate, or the finish of the Third at Hialeah, or the happy basking countenance of the freshly picked bathing beauty in the very act of being picked that noon at Dallas.

This machine, developed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, supplants an older, admittedly unsatisfactory method of high speed electrical transmission of news photographs. It will begin to operate toward the summer's close over 10,000 miles of leased wires in the United States, and it may change the "reading habits" of millions of Americans.

"Did you read the story this morning about...?"

"No, but I saw the picture." We are coming more and more to depend upon pictures to give us the news of what the world did yesterday. And the true significance of this machine is that it contains a potent economic force to accelerate that movement of taking the eye off the printed word and placing it upon the picture.

January 13, 1928, was an important date in the rise of the picturization of news in America. That morning the New York Daily News carried on its front page a macabre picture of Ruth Snyder dying in the electric chair at Sing Sing. A photographer, admitted to the death chamber as a reporter, had sat in the first row of witnesses, a concealed camera strapped to his left ankle and had watched Mrs. Snyder die while he did something which had never been done before: photographed a woman in the act of being electrocuted. By afternoon a copy of that morning paper was at the premium price of 50 cents.

This so-called "picture scoop" created a storm of controversy which still lives on. A tidal wave of criticism broke over Manhattan. Conservatives bitterly denounced the act and the picture, ignoring the obvious fact that reporters of the conservative press had striven mightily with adjectives and lurid adverbs to do the identical thing which the camera eye had done so easily in one blink. The defenders of the News could not combat the charges that the picture was gotten by subterfuge. Warden Lewis E. Lawes declared a perpetual ban on all photographers. And the final result of all the discussion was that those who craved their news in picture form were led to the belief that their right to have whatever the camera could give them was being somehow unconstitutionally curbed.

There is no evidence that this event, finally construed as a test case for the freedom of the camera, led to any orgy of publishing gruesome pictorial offences against good taste, but it certainly did intensify the effort of the "picture people" to capture on the camera plate any and all happenings which could by any stretch of the imagination be termed "news". In many instances a good picture can tell a story better than many words, and there is every reason to assume that the new A. T. & T. telephoto process will increase the space devoted to pictures in many American newspapers. And it will do this through the forces of competition and without respect for the wishes of individual publishers. For this reason it has caused a fight which has nearly split in two the membership of the Associated Press.

The Associated Press is a non-dividend, non-stock association, organized for the sole purpose of gathering news and for the exchange of news among its members. The expense of this service is shared by the members, the amount being determined largely by the place in which the member paper is published and by its circulation. But in the case of the new telephoto service only those members who elect to use it are to be assessed.

This would seem to be no burden upon those members not interested in photographic news, but such a quick conclusion overlooks the important factor of competition and the potency of many modern machines to force themselves upon reluctant users.

One example will make this clear. After the membership of the A.P. had voted confidence in its management in developing the special telephoto service, Captain Joseph Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News, announced that he would take the service in New York. There were no other takers among the New York membership. This meant that the Daily News must pay the total New York charge, which will be approximately $150,000 a year. So far, so good. But let us imagine that shortly after the service is started, a city on the Pacific coast is razed by an earthquake. Pictures will be taken and placed on the 10,000 mile wire circuit of the A.P. Only those members who have subscribed to the service will be entitled to "copy the picture off the wire." The result? Captain Patterson's paper will be the only one in New York the next morning which will have a photograph of the razed city! Such a thing would in all likelihood happen only once before the clamor would come from the other A.P. members in New York City to be let in on the service. In that event, Captain Patterson's charge would be reduced proportionately. He would not be getting exclusive pictures, but he would be able to use more of them than any rival because his is primarily a picture paper. For creating business this machine apparently cannot be beaten.

Let us assume that you are running a newspaper in a city of 100,000 population. You have a rival. You think of yours as the conservative paper. You are losing circulation. Your competitor decides to take the new telephoto service. Even before he puts over a picture head on you, and thereby spurs his circulation, you decide to plunge. The service will cost you $25,000 a year. No one is forcing you to use a large number of these pictures, but if you use only a few they will have the paid-for value of old matters. So you find yourself printing more and more pictures with perhaps less and less news value in order to justify your investment. Are you being "squeezed" by a machine or not? Even contrary to your wishes your readers will be forced to get an increasing amount of news by studying pictures.

Moreover, in order to meet that $25,000 charge you have to fire a few good desk men, dispose of the services of an editorial writer, a cartoonist. Dispensing with such services means you will have more white space to fill; what more logical than that you should fill such space with the telephoto pictures which you have paid for anyway?

This is the competitive force inherent in the machine market. It is a kind of modern Pandora's box. Here are the seeds of a new picture war, and if such a war develops it will place all the emphasis upon speed of distribution. The successful newspaper will be the one which is figuratively up on its toes, willing to spend money to get the pictures and get them first. Pictures, rather than the printed word, will be what Americans get from their newspapers.

9. TIPS FOR BEGINNERS

SKEET requires no previous experience with a shotgun. It is not easy, but neither is golf, or any other worthwhile sport, and therein lies the beauty of it. Every successful Skeet club will of course have its committee to look after points of organization, grounds, finance, etc., and it should choose two or three really experienced shots who will form an instruction committee to look after the newcomer and the novice. If you have never had a gun in your hands, these shooters will be glad to put you up to the fundamentals of the game; remember, a little personal coaching plus willingness to learn and to observe, and self-confidence, is all the newcomer needs. And, of course, practice.

If you have fired a few shells before, there are in all probability some kinks to be taken out of your stance and aim-work.

Be sure that the gun you use fits you. Don't rush to buy one right at the start. Ask the Secretary of your Skeet club to let you try one or two from the gun rack before you decide which one you will purchase. Guns fit, as well as clothes. Obviously, the arm suitable for a six-foot, twohundred pound man will not be the right one for a teenage girl. You will soon find the correct gun for your particular size and characteristics.

Leave your nerves and self-consciousness behind you when you walk out to Station 1. Take things easy. Stand naturally, don't grip too hard. Don't shoot too much just a few shells at first. It is of more value to keep your eye on some of the old-timers. Watch how they handle themselves.

After you have got the gun that fits, practice with it as much as possible, unobdurate, of course, swinging and pointing at different objects. An excellent idea is to practice stance before a mirror, if you can remember how those experts looked that you were watching earlier in the day. Do not fire the gun when it is empty; you will damage the firing pin. Load it with an empty shell, use it fifteen times or so, and then replace it with another empty.

You will be surprised how quickly you catch on. Above all, be patient and try to make steady progress, rather than scores that are sometimes spectacular and mainly erratic.

This is No. 9 of a series of 12 articles on Skeet Shooting. Cut it out. When all have been clipped, you will have a complete write-up of this sportman's sport which is rapidly becoming the vogue across Canada.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hogg, of Jarow, at the Wainwright municipal hospital, on October 30th, a boy.

It is pleasing to note that Mr. Geo. Murray, agent of the Pool elevator is now recovering nicely from his operation for appendicitis at the hospital.

Mr. Walter Gray, of Fabyan, is spending a few days in Edmonton on business bent.

We learn that Mr. Paul Couture, of Fabyan, was brought to hospital on Saturday last suffering from after effects of a bad attack of flu.

Who is going to become the winner of the handsome "Napoleonic Coach" electric clock which will be awarded as first "door ticket" prize at the monster Halloween dance at the theatre tonight? It surely is a worthwhile award. Free novelties. Adults 50c; students 35c.

We are informed that a number of our townsfolk have subscribed to a list for a monthly donation towards the expense of radio broadcasting from CFRCN each Tuesday at 10 p.m. on the topic of social credit.

Values run up to $12.00 in the prize contest at the Wainwright Pharmacy. Ask for circular.

Mr. Dave Davison is away this week to Winnipeg in charge of the buffalo which are being shipped from the National Park here to Poland.

Miss Innis, of Senlac, who has been staying with her cousin Miss M. Ford in town, is arranging to return to her home at the week end.

On Sunday next Rev. R. W. Griffiths, of Jarow, will take both morning and evening services at the United church, when Rev. T. E. Armstrong will exchange pulpits.

Storm doors and windows, paper, felt, Black Diamond and Drumheller coal—in fact, everything to keep you warm this winter is procurable at the Atlas yard. Get our prices. Joe Welch, agent.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Lane and family motored over to Fort Saskatchewan on Sunday to visit friends. They were accompanied by Mrs. E. Gauderton.

After a pleasant holiday spent with relatives in Ontario, Mr. Jack O'Keefe of Heath, has now returned home.

On Sunday morning last at the United church the service of baptism was performed by the pastor, the baby being duly named Helen Barbara Vail.

You surely shouldn't miss that big offer on page six this week. Turn and read it through again, and benefit by this big reduction in the cost of your year's reading matter.

On Monday morning Mrs. Marvin Plaxton was a patient at the hospital for an appendix operation, and we are glad to note that she is recovering nicely.

The Rexall Drug Store (Wainwright Pharmacy) are announcing their annual big prize contest for boys and girls. Drop in and get full particulars of the free gifts for Christmas.

Quite a large number of men and teams from the district are busily engaged at work on the new highway grade, and we understand an attempt is to be made to complete this into Wainwright before snow flies.

"Betty Boop" arrived in town this week, and this handsome beauty will be awarded as second "door-prize" at the Elite's big Halloween dance tonight (Wednesday). Adults, 50c; students, 35c; with free novelties included.
